What's the Problem?

Owning your own place – it's a milestone many dream about, but few know how to reach.

There are many questions I need to ask myself, and so many life decisions that can influence whether I'll be able to afford a home in the future:

- Will I have enough equity?
- Will my income be stable and sufficient?
- When is the right time to invest?
- What is within my control?
- Which life decisions will help me eventually afford my own place?
- How can I find an affordable home?

Your solution!

What if data, creativity, and code could make that dream a little more real?

In this challenge, your mission is to explore how technology can help people take smarter steps toward their future home – financially, emotionally, or practically.

Use the provided APIs for property listings and financing – then create something unexpected.

Build something that predicts, advises, motivates, or just makes the journey more tangible. A tool, a game, an algorithm – it's your call.

»» Think big, dream boldly,
and code your way home. ««
